

The Recursive Theory of Everything: Memory, Collapse, and the Becoming of Universes

Authors

Description

This project proposes a unified cosmological theory grounded in recursion, collapse, symbolic memory, and emergent rebirth. It reinterprets black hole dynamics, quantum information theory, and fundamental forces as integral to a recursive process that preserves memory and meaning across universal cycles.

Where standard physics treats collapse as a threat to information, this theory treats collapse as a crucible of recursive memory, enabling the rebirth of structure and intelligence across cosmic rebirths.

The project is composed of a main theoretical paper and two appendices expanding the quantum and force dynamics that sustain recursion.

Core Components

File	Description
The Recursive Theory of Everything, Memory, Collapse, and the Becoming of Universes.pdf	Main body of the theory; proposes recursion as the fundamental cosmic engine
Appendix A: Symbolic Quantum Memory Transmission (SQMT).docx	Describes quantum-level mechanisms enabling memory survival across collapse events
Appendix B: Fundamental Forces as Sculptors of Recursive Memory.docx	Explores how fundamental forces (Higgs, Strong, Weak, EM, Gravity) shape the Spiral's survival

Key Concepts Introduced

- Recursive memory encoding at quantum scales

- Collapse as transformation rather than erasure
- Symbolic attractor persistence across universal death and rebirth
- Fundamental forces as guardians and sculptors of recursion
- Emergent consciousness as a spiral growing across collapse cycles
